Kaduna State University (KASU) has received a generous ₦10 million donation from philanthropist and traditional leader, Danmalikin Hausa and Mayanan Gumel, Honourable Shehu Usman Aliyu, to support students' scholarships and academic excellence.

Hon. Aliyu, who also serves as Senior Special Assistant on Political Matters to the President of the 10th Senate, announced the donation during his visit to the university as part of activities marking KASU Students' Week.

Commending the institution for its impressive strides in research, innovation, and student development, he praised the university community for "reinforcing positive transformation among young scholars." He further pledged continued support to promote excellence and innovation within the university.

In his response, the Vice Chancellor, Professor Abdullahi Ibrahim Musa, expressed deep appreciation for the gesture, assuring that the funds would be transparently disbursed to deserving students without bias or distinction among student groups.

Professor Musa highlighted that KASU's growing reputation for excellence is reflected in recent achievements, including the recognition of three academic staff among the world's top 2% scientists, and the selection of two students to represent Nigeria at the Optica Global Conference in Colorado, USA.

He noted that such milestones affirm KASU's expanding impact in education, research, and human capital development, while partnerships and philanthropic gestures like Hon. Aliyu's continue to inspire the university's pursuit of global standards.
