KASU Management Salutes Kaduna Governor Over Strategic Interventions

By: Hamza Musa Makarfi

The management of Kaduna State University has commended Uba Sani for his administration's interventions in critical areas of the institution, particularly in infrastructure development, scholarship funding, and other initiatives aimed at strengthening teaching, learning, and research.

The Vice-Chancellor, Prof. Abdullahi Ibrahim Musa, gave the commendation while leading principal officers of the university to the inauguration of the remodelled office of the Registrar, Samira Balarabe Esq.

According to the Vice-Chancellor, the support and attention received by the university since Governor Uba Sani assumed office three years ago have significantly transformed the institution, positioning it for greater excellence in research and increasing its visibility both locally and internationally.

Professor Abdullahi Ibrahim Musa also appreciated the KASU Alumni Association for facilitating the facelift of the Registrar's office. He reaffirmed the university's commitment to advancing research initiatives capable of contributing directly to the socio-economic development of Kaduna State and Nigeria at large.

The College of Communication, Management and Social Sciences of Kaduna State University has successfully hosted the second edition of its seminar series aimed at strengthening productivity, institutional efficiency, and professional excellence among staff and relevant stakeholders.

The capacity-building engagement focused on practical areas critical to modern university administration, including minutes and report writing, file movement and documentation, tracking systems, workplace ethics, mentorship, and responsive institutional practices.

Participants drawn from departments, administrative units, and academic support services were exposed to strategies designed to improve service delivery, accountability, teamwork, and operational effectiveness within the university system.

Resource persons at the seminar included Lucky Katoma, who facilitated discussions on effective documentation, report writing, and administrative communication; Dr. Bashariya Baba Mustapha, who delivered a presentation titled "Professional Excellence in University Administration: Mindset, Ethics, and Continuous Growth"; Dr. Evelyn Kasang Bako, who presented a paper on "Building Responsive and Compassionate Systems in the Workplace," with emphasis on workplace relationships, institutional empathy, and effective communication; and Tochukwu Innocent Iyiegbu, who shared insights on organizational efficiency, innovation, and productivity-driven systems.

Speaking during the seminar, the Provost of the College of Communication, Management and Social Sciences, Prof. Gimba Victor Kyari, said the initiative reflects the College's commitment to continuous staff development, institutional growth, and research-driven solutions capable of positively impacting society.

Professor Kyari noted that beyond enhancing the internal capacity of staff, the seminar series is expected to promote professionalism, strengthen administrative coordination, and improve overall productivity across the College and the wider university community.

Faculty of Arts Community Expresses Confidence in Ongoing Examination Exercise at Kaduna State University

By: Zion Abui

Students and academic staff of the Faculty of Arts, Kaduna State University (KASU), have satisfaction with the conduct of the ongoing examination exercise, describing the process as organized, peaceful, and reflective of academic preparation.

Interviews revealed encouraging responses from students, invigilators, and faculty leadership regarding compliance with examination regulations and expectations for improved academic outcomes.

Speaking during the interview, Comfort Kefas, alongside her colleague Marvelous Abashe, both students of the Department of English, noted that the examination exercise had progressed according to schedule and described the questions as consistent with lecture content and study materials.

They also commended their lecturers for commitment throughout the semester and the academic support provided in preparation for the examinations.

Another student, Maryam Ghali Imam, expressed general satisfaction with the conduct of the exercise. She also acknowledged the teaching effectiveness of her lecture Prof. Audi T. Giwa, noting that his lectures contributed significantly to students' preparedness.

Usman Mohammed,
President, Faculty Of Arts Students Association

Also speaking, Usman Muhammad, popularly known as Mr. UM, President of the Faculty of Arts Students' Association for the 2025/2026 session and a 400-level student of the Department of English, described the examination exercise as smooth and free from major setbacks.

According to him, the student leadership consistently sensitized students against examination misconduct and encouraged responsible academic pursuit throughout the semester and examination period.

He stated that the faculty leadership organized support structures and encouraged tutorials across different levels in preparation for the examinations.

Expressing his expectations, Mr. UM said the leadership looks forward to positive results and improved academic performance following students' efforts and preparation.

From the academic and examination management perspective, Associate Professor Abdulshakur Yusuf Ishaq, who served as one of the invigilators, described the examination process as orderly and free from major incidents.

According to him, students generally demonstrated good compliance with examination rules and regulations, with no cases of examination malpractice recorded during his supervision.

Also speaking, Dr. Yahaya Umar Abdullahi of the Department of Arabic stated that the examination activities had progressed successfully and students cooperated throughout the exercise.
