

FAITHFULNESS IN SERVICE: KEY MESSAGE AT KASU CCC FELLOWSHIP MEETING

By: Caleb Kanda

The Christian Community Congress (CCC), Kaduna State University (KASU), held its fellowship meeting on Wednesday, 24th June 2026, at the 300-Seater Lecture Theatre, Faculty of Social Sciences.

The fellowship was led by Engr. Martins Sambo, who delivered a thought-provoking sermon from Matthew 25:14–16. Drawing lessons from the passage, he emphasized the importance of faithfulness, diligence, and accountability in the use of the opportunities and responsibilities entrusted to believers.

Engr. Sambo encouraged members of staff to use their offices and positions to do the right thing at all times, stressing that every role occupied by a Christian should reflect integrity, fairness, and a commitment to godly values. He reminded participants that faithful service in both small and great responsibilities attracts God's approval and contributes positively to the university community and society at large.

The meeting also featured discussions on the KASU Christian Community Congress Building Project. Members deliberated on the progress of the project and explored ways of sustaining support towards its successful completion. Participants expressed their commitment to the vision and reaffirmed their willingness to contribute to the realization of the project.

The fellowship concluded with prayers for God's guidance, wisdom, and blessings upon members of the Congress, Kaduna State University, and the ongoing building project.
